Class Description:

This class is a fun exploration of math skills! It is an interactive math class that involves games and hands on manipulatives. Working with partners and interacting with friends will help to reinforce learning in a fun way. We will focus on opportunities to show God’s kindness, grace, and love to each other as we work together in groups while we explore number sense, addition, subtraction, problem solving, place value, time, money, fractions, measurement, and many other Indiana State Standards for K-1 Math through hands-on activities. As the year goes on, we will practice basic skills with a friend by completing a “Number of the Day” sheet (differentiated based on skill ability) to practice number sense, tally marks, number words, addition, subtraction. Since this class is designed to support and reinforce skills, there will be no weekly homework.

Teacher Background:

Hi! I’m Mrs. Howell. I received a Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education & Special Education from Indiana University Bloomington in 2002. I worked as a full time special education teacher for one year in 2nd and 4th grade, then moved into my own classroom as a 3rd grade teacher of an inclusion room split half and half including kids with special needs for two years. After that, I homeschooled my daughter, Kylie (age 14), through second grade while attending Wisdom Builders. I also have three more bonus daughters (ages 13, 10, and 10-twins!)

Also, I am a lifestyle portrait photographer and business owner of “Raindancer Studios” (www.raindancerstudios.com). My passion is photographing kids and families! And, I am the founder of an organization called “Dare to Dance” (www.daretodancewithjill.com). It exists to empower, encourage, and equip females to overcome life’s storms with grit and grace, to dance in the muddy mess of life, and live free of fear, guilt, and shame. I am currently writing both a nonfiction book and a children’s book so life is pretty full these days! :)
